You can catch all these premieres on Cable this month — see below.

There's also some fine new series starting this January — check-out page three for a taste of adventure and a taste of Guinness!

Plus you'll have the chance to make the most spectacular descent of your life in this month's competition — see page 4 for all the details! In addition, we bring you news on extended coverage on the Parliamentary Channel; news on Classic FM and details of a new Asian Channel.

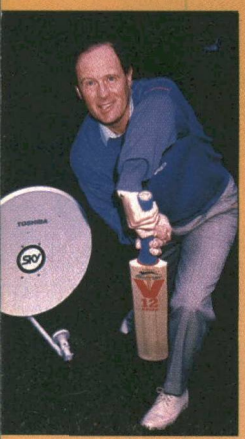
Sky Sports wins England's tour of India

Sky television has secured exclusive rights to live coverage of England's cricket tour of India this Winter.This will be the first ever Test tour shown live, in full, from the subcontinent.

Sky Sports will broadcast every ball live from all three test matches and all six One - Day Internationals, starting with the limited overs match at Ahmedabad on Saturday 16th. The tour will be one of next year's most ambitious sports broadcasts, with more than 150 hours of live coverage.



Charles Colvile, front man for Sky's Cricket World Cup coverage, will present the broadcast and the commentary team will also feature England batsman David Gower, Geoff Boycott and India's greatest cricketer Sunil Gavaskar.

The India tour continues a series of successful cricket tours on Sky, which started with the first England Test Tour to be broadcast live from the West Indies in Spring 1991, and went on to include South Africa's historic tour of the Caribbean after 21 years in the sporting wilderness in April 1992.

'This is another major sporting coup for Sky,' said Chief Executive Sam Chisholm. 'It continues our promise to bring the very best live sport to our subscribers. ■

Don't cry for Faye

Academy award-winner Faye Dunaway stars with James Farentino in Evita Peron, the two-part mini-series that tells the true story of a beautiful peasant girl whose ambition to be famous drives her to make her lover, Juan Peron, president of Argentina, and herself one of the world's richest and most powerful women.

Youthful and impressionable Eva (Faye Dunaway) falls for the charms of a tango singer, and leaves her poor village to accompany him to Buenos Aires, where she hopes to find fame and fortune as an actress.

Once there her aspirations soar, and, using her charismatic personality, she insinuates her way into the political sphere of Colonel Juan Peron (Farentino), a man she believes can offer her the future and opportunities she desires. With the help of influential political leaders, she rallies Argentina's masses, and Peron is duly elected, with Eva finally realising her goal - to become the most powerful woman in Argentina.

Filmed on location in Guadalajara, Mexico and Los Angeles, the series is based on the books Evita - First Lady by John Barnes and Eva Peron by Nicholas Fraser. ■

VISIONS

January's Star Line -up on Cable

Crime of the century

In the decade between 1935 and 1945, the world witnessed the most monstrous crime in history - the murder of six million Jews by the Nazis.

This numbing and appalling atrocity is dramatised in the mini-series Holocaust, which won eight Emmy Awards and featured an all-star international cast including Meryl Streep, James Woods, Michael Moriarty, Joseph Bottoms and Fritz Weaver.

The horror of this time in history is revealed through the lives of two very different families living in Nazi Germany. The first of these is the Jewish family of Dr Joseph Weiss, a skilled physician, his proud and refined wife and their three children. Parallelling their saga is the story of Erik Dorf, an impoverished lawyer who, spurred on by his ambitious wife, joins the SS and swiftly rises to become an aide to Heydrich, chief strategist for devising the horrific 'final solution' to Europe's 'Jewish problem'.

Also starring Tom Bell, Rosemary Harris, Ian Holm and Tovah Feldshuh, also seen in The Triangle Factory Fire Scandal. ■

You'll Roux the day

22 years ago French brothers Albert and Michel Roux opened their first restaurant, Le Gavroche. Today, Albert still runs Le Gavroche while Michel now owns the Waterside Inn at Bray

In TLC's new series The Roux Brothers, Albert and Michel join forces once again to prepare a variety of sumptuous dishes for lovers of good food. From eggs to fish and from meat to patisserie, they offer tips and recipes for both amateurs and masterchefs.

Cooking aside, the temperamental twosome are reason enough to tune ino the series. Over the weeks their humorous disagreements cover most aspects of cooking, from simple techniques to the ingredients that should be included when making a 'classic watercress soup': Michel's recipe includes onions, carrots and leeks, while Albert's only requires potatoes and stock! ■

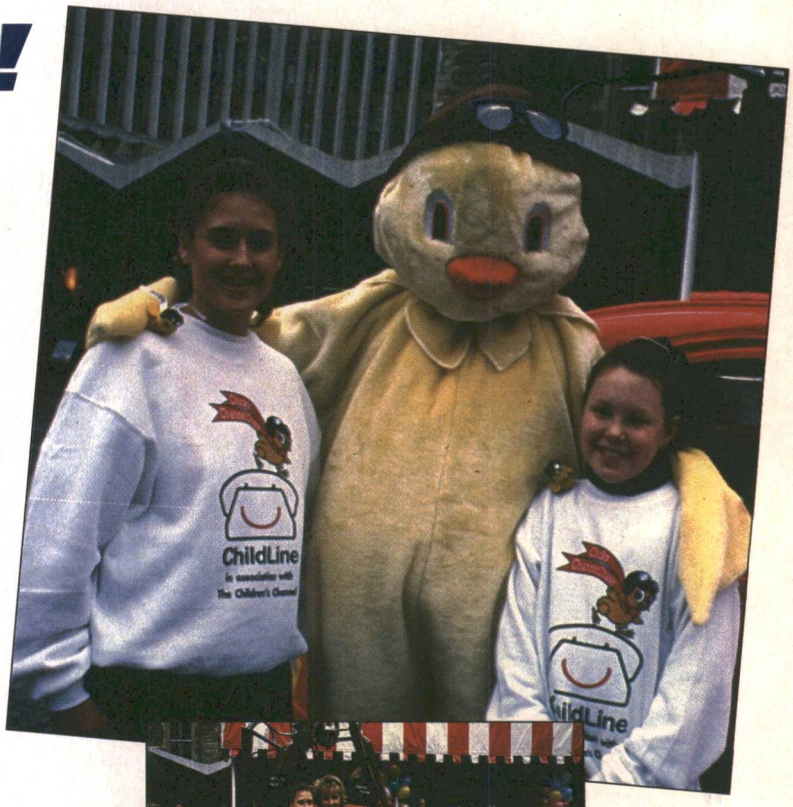
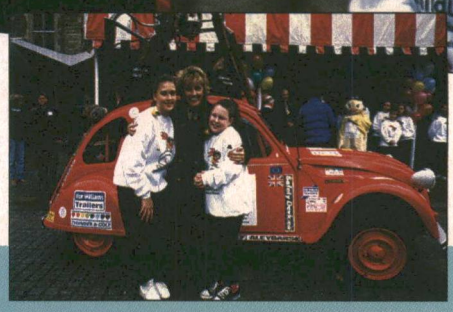
Sponsor a chick for ChildLine!





Everyone is getting into a flap over this Easter's exciting fund-raising extravaganza – the Chicks Channel Chase! The Children's Channel is inviting its viewers and Cable Guide readers to join in the fun and raise money for ChildLine, the free helpline for children in danger. How can you help? Read on . . .

People all over the country are being asked to raise money to sponsor a cuddly toy chick to fly across the channel on a record-breaking flight.

The chicks will 'fly' from England to France next Easter in a specially converted Citroen 2CV car - attached to a hot air balloon!

Your sponsored chick (or even chicks) won't be alone, though. This unique hot air balloon will be piloted by world renowned balloonist Philip Saunders, lawyer for the City of London, and his 17-year-old daughter, Sacha. Chasing them will be a flotilla of more than 50 hot air balloons carrying even more sponsored chicks.

So how can you sponsor a chick? It's simple; your school or youth group can get together to sponsor one of these chicks for as little as £100 (or you could even do it on your own!)

On receipt of your £100, a special 'Chick Airlines' flight ticket will be issued to you, and your chick's perch will be booked. After the flight your chick will be returned to you complete with a commemorative photograph and an exclusive Chicks Channel Chase certificate.

But that's not all! Your most imaginative idea for fundraising (it could be a jumble or car boot sale, a raffle or even a flower-arranging demonstration) could win you spectacular prizes and even a chance to appear on The Children's Channel. So keep your eyes glued to your TV set, as regular updates on the Chicks Channel Chase will be broadcast on The Children's Channel throughout the build-up to the big day.

So just where your money will go? It's simple: ChildLine receives 10,000 attempted phone calls every day from children in trouble, but lack of funds means that only 2,500 of these can be answered. ChildLine's dream is to be able to answer every child's call first time. Your money will help ChildLine reach its goal, so get fundraising now!

If you'd like to find out more about how you can help, or would like an official sponsor form you can write to ChildLine at the following address:

Flash in the pan?

I WOULD LIKE to find out whether there are plans to show another series of The Flash, whom my little boy adores. He loves his hero and is constantly asking whether he will be back.

D A Wright, Downham, Bromley

● The Flash is likely to return to Sky One some time in 1993 but no date has been fixed.

Maximise the minis!

THERE HAS BEEN a marvellous season of Sunday-night mini-series on Sky One but I find it normally clashes with a premiere or film. This leaves me with a difficult choice as I'm a film buff and I subscribe to both movie channels. The mini-series should be repeated during the week.

M A Khan, Erith, Kent

A piece of cake

I ENJOYED learning from the Learning Channel's programme The Fun of Cake Decorating but un fortunately I missed the November 4th edition, which was the last of the series. Will it be repeated?

● It is pencilled in for a re-run in March.

The Country club

HOW ABOUT IT? There are hundreds of Country and Western music fans in this country and not one programme for them on Sky or any other channel.

I have lived in Canada and the States for 10 years and their Country music is fabulous.

I have now moved back here and went into a big record store and was annoyed to see only about half-a-dozen tapes of my old stars. If people do not see these top American stars on TV how are they going to find out about them?

I brought lots of tapes and CDs home with me and spend much of my time taping them for other people.

So please, please, how about some Country shows. Think of us Country fans!

Striking gold!

I AM writing to say what a brilliant channel UK Gold is. I was also wondering if there are plans to show the series The Planet of the Apes as British TV only put on 13 of the 24 episodes. I would very much like to see them.

Wayne Betts, Merton Park London

● We know of no plans at present to show that series.

Who's hot and who's not in the WWF

Hi! wrestling fans, and welcome to Powerslam, the Cable Guide WWF update column.

Well, the WWF is rife with stories this month and none hotter than the sad divorce of Macho Man Randy Savage. Against overwhelming odds Miss Elizabeth and the Macho Man Savage have tried to keep their marriage together. But sadly the heavy toll paid by Savage for his contractual arrangements is divorce.

WWF stars the British Bulldog and Ultimate Warrior are talking of a 'walkout' over money. Newspapers have picked up on this and blown the story out of all proportion.

The true story at this stage is unclear, but I can confirm that there are reports that Davy Boy and Jim Hellwigs are no longer competing in the WWF. A series of legal moves is currently being undertaken in the USA to resolve the financial hurdle which has caused this potentially catastrophic result for the WWF.

Macho Man and Miss Elizabeth get divorced and the British Bulldog has had a bust-up with the WWF – John Greenfield reveals all!

Should both superstars carry out their threat and leave the WWF, I for one would be hard-pushed to be so enthusiastic about the WWF. It looks as though the loss of talent over the past six to eight months has been a tragic circumstance of the WWF management being greedy.

Max Moon (Atomic Kid) is really Paul Diamond aka 'Kato', formerly one half of the Orient Express. This disclosure during the past week gives the answer to the question, Where is Kato?

Marty Jannetty and Shawn Michaels are feuding. Fans will know Jannetty returned to the WWF in October, but only on a short-term contract.

Ric Flair and Razor Ramone are still dominating the tag team ranks in the USA, but not for long. Ric and Scott Steiner of the WCW/IWGP fame are negotiating to join the WWF, but no firm contract has been signed.

The USWA-WWF co-operative, currently working well, could develop into an amalgamation, if my sources are correct. With WWF stars in dispute over contractual arrangements it is a possible route for the WWF to take.

Finally, there have been operational and administrative errors within the American Wrestling Fan Club, of which I am Honorary President. I would ask those awaiting information to be patient. Should you require information the address to write to is PO Box 1234, Southampton.

And for all those fans out there, let's hope the WWF in 1993 flourishes.

News just in: Davy Boy has lost the Intercontinental title to Shawn Michaels. Lots of new controversy in the WWF, will update you soon.

Cheerio! ■

The best of TVFM

NEW YEAR'S DAY sees a bumper collection of the best moments from TCC's hottest programme of the year – TVFM.

The Lurve Spot asks Brian from E17 some decidedly difficult questions, such as 'When was your first kiss?' Brian struggled on this one, but managed to cast his mind back to those long-forgotten days at junior school where 11-year-old Hailey sneaked up on him and gave him a big smacker on the cheek!

Next stop is a chat with Jennifer Batten, Wacko Jacko's lead guitarist on his last tour. Konnie discovers the truth behind all the press rumours about Michael's face and his sleeping in an oxygen tent! The wild woman of rock certainly has a few tales to tell.

TVFM also managed to grab a few moments with Tasmin Archer when her single Sleeping Satellite was Number 1. Tasmin's ideal date would be in her home county of Yorkshire, eating a traditional Sunday lunch with her first real love John, her co-writer in the band.

Catch Jennifer, Tasmin and loads more gossip and inside info in this TVFM special on New Year's Day. ■

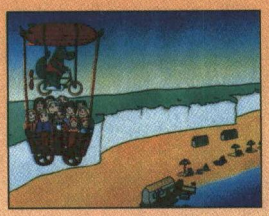
There are never any visitors to Muddy Town because it is always raining and full of muddy pools, but Christopher helps to change all this with his wild and wacky ideas.



Who else could invent a flying bicycle to blow away the rain clouds or turn a mud slide into a tourist attraction? When he isn't inventing, he loves nothing better than relaxing in a muddy pool and eating his favourite food – peanut butter and cold custard. Eeurgh! ■

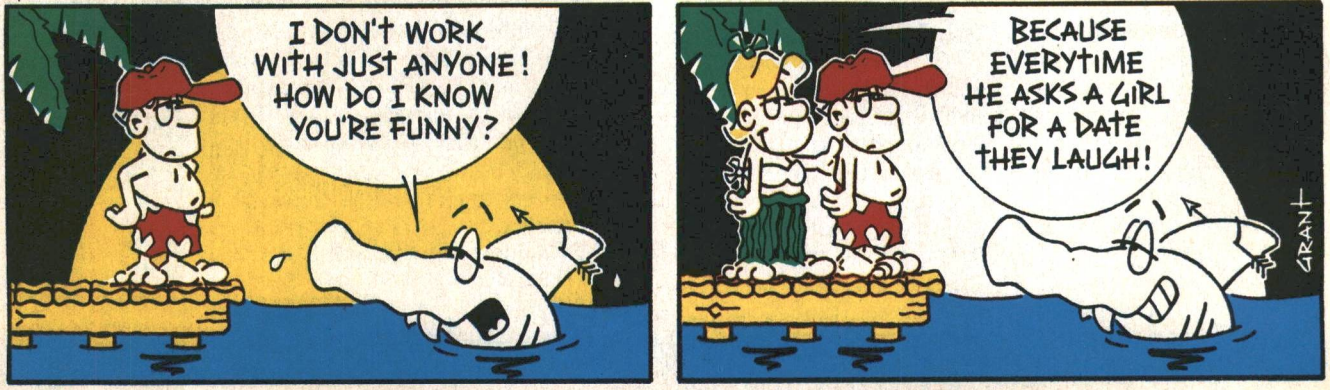
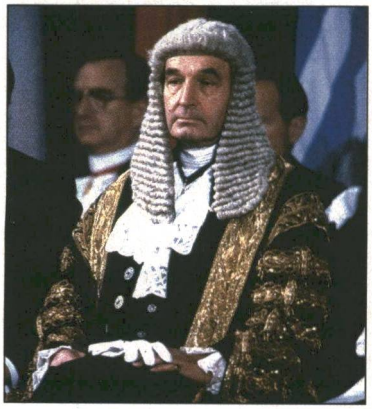
FISH TALES (ON TV) by Grant



The man with no name!



Even the most powerful politicians in the land cannot refer to the formidable figure in the black gown by name. Being Speaker of the Commons is a solitary but influential job. Lord Weatherill (pictured left), the former Speaker turned Chairman of the Parliamentary Channel, gives 'Cable Guide' a flavour of life in the Chamber . . .

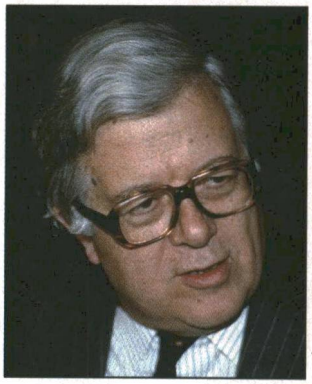
As the man who chaired House of Commons debates for nine years, Lord Weatherill has witnessed some of the momentous occasions of modern British politics, including the events that pulled down Margaret Thatcher.

'There was [Foreign Secretary] Sir Geoffrey Howe's speech when he'd finally decided he'd had enough of serving in the Cabinet and he used the analogy of being sent to the crease with a broken cricket bat, which was dramatic,' Lord Weatherill says.

'There was the night when the Opposition put down a no-confidence motion and Mrs Thatcher made this remarkably robust speech in which she justified what she had done. Absolutely brilliant stuff! I've got videos of both occasions. Then there were the dramatic upsets that have emanated from the other side of the Commons. 'Tony Benn's speech on what was called the Zircon affair in 1987 completely swung the House of Commons,' Lord Weatherill says. 'It was an extremely powerful speech. The government's motion was defeated and Tony Benn's amendment was accepted in its place.'

Aswell as refereeing the verbal bouts between the most powerful figures in Britain, it is also the duty of the First Commoner in the Land (as the Speaker is known) to be at ease with heads of state and Royalty, including his own Sovereign. 'When the Queen came to dinner with us she came into the Speaker's house [inside the Palace of Westminster] and said: "Mr Speaker, I have been told you have the best tide cottage in the Kingdom."

'I replied, "I don't deny that, Ma'am. But may I remind you that of my predecessors eight had their heads chopped off – two on the same day – on the direct orders of your forebears." You don't lose your head these days but it is still a pretty rough, tough life,' says Lord Weatherill wryly.



'It is rather like sending your opening batsmen to the crease only for them to find, the moment the first ball is bowled, that their bat has been broken before the game by the team captain' – Sir Geoffrey Howe on representing Britain in Europe under Mrs Thatcher in 1990

It was in 1983 that Lord Weatherill became the Speaker of the Commons. At the time he was known as Conservative MP Bernard Weatherill. 'I was proposed by the Conservative Party, seconded by Labour and supported by all the minority parties,' he says. 'It was a dramatic occasion for me. I hadn't expected it.'

In time-honoured fashion, the Lord Chancellor sought the Queen's approval of the Commons' choice of Speaker. 'The next day, in his court dress, the Speaker is told by the Lord Chancellor that the Queen approves and he is then addressed by the Lord Chancellor as Mr Speaker. 'From that moment on you are called nothing else. You lose your name.'

The Speaker must also lose his politics. He must be impartial in selecting who speaks in debates and which amendments to bills should be debated.

His considerable powers further include requiring Ministers to appear at the dispatch box to answer emergency questions and over-riding government business to make way for emergency debates.

And then there is the Speaker's obligation to maintain discipline. Does the man who must have shouted 'Order! Order!' many thousands of times believe that the rowdy MPs seen on news bulletins signify a decline in Commons behaviour? The answer is no. 'It is a matter of historic fact that it has improved,' he says. 'Read Hansard of the last century for proof of that!'

'That part of his speech [Sir Geoffrey Howe's] was rather like being savaged by a dead sheep' – Denis Healey in 1978 on being attacked in the Commons by Sir Geoffrey Howe

Lord Weatherill continues: 'The important thing about the Parliamentary Channel is that it is a continuous feed.

'What the public have seen in the past has been edited highlights. If you just put on what the media judges to be entertainment then of course it does get out of balance.'

Lord Weatherill describes the Commons as a workshop, but one that contains some exciting performers. 'Dennis Skinner is brilliant,' says Lord Weatherill of the Labour MP known as the Beast of Bolsover for his bruising verbal attacks on opponents. 'He is a very good Parliamentarian.' Enoch Powell, Michael Foot, Denis Healey and Margaret Thatcher were other orators who filled the Chamber when they rose to speak.

'A woman who certainly speaks from the heart is Emma Nicholson,' Lord Weatherill adds. 'She reduced me to tears when she spoke about her visit to Iraq and how she found a boy who had been badly burnt and brought him back here. I wrote a cheque at once for the fund she was setting up.' ROBIN JAROSSI

Betty Boothroyd (right) succeeded Lord Weatherill as Speaker after the General Election and can now be seen on the Parliamentary Channel, which is expanding its coverage of Westminster. Yesterday in the Lords will transmit the previous day's proceedings from the upper chamber from 7.00am. Live coverage of the Commons then begins as usual at 2.30pm. On Fridays only, the Commons sits from 9.30am to 3.00pm, which is when Yesterday in the Lords will start. Tennis action downunder

The Australian Open is the first Grand Slam event of the year and the first major tournament of the season shown live on Sky Sports. Over the next nine months Sue Barker and the tennis team will travel to Paris for the French Open fortnight and New York for the US Open.

But first it's off to Flinders Park in Melbourne for two weeks of exclusive live tournament tennis every afternoon from Monday 18th.

If the US is the richest title and the French the most glamorous, the Australian is renowned for its brilliant sunshine. Two years ago the heat was so intense that the hardcourt surface started to melt in the fierce midday sun.

But last year the weather was surprisingly cool for the first 10 days, and the crowds turned out in droves to smash the previous attendance record, as 330,000 tennis fans filed through Flinders Park.

The entry for the Men's event was exceptional, with just two names missing from the top 20 seeds.

It was also reputed to be the strongest field and most open event in the tournament's 87-year history.

Six seeds succumbed at the Second Round stage, including Forget and Ivanisevic, but by the Final the system had reverted to form, with Stefan Edberg (number 1) and Jim Courier (number 2) - the top two seeds - competing for the season's first title.

In four frustrating sets for the former World number 1, a powerful Courier picked off Edberg, and picked up $360,000 as he started his quest to overhaul the Swede in the world rankings.

It was a wonderful start to his most successful season. By the close of the year Courier had added the French Open and reached the final at Wimbledon, as he took the number one spot in the world tennis rankings.

In the Women's event Monica Seles, one month part her 18th birthday, defeated Mary Joe Fernandez in 77 compelling minutes.

Despite suffering from a badly ricked neck, Seles ran Fernandez ragged to take the title in the third set.

The first set had seen a break of serve point in every game, but Seles twitched and grunted as she powered to victory with her penetrating serves in the 6 - 2 final set.

▲ Monica Seles in action

It was the start of a good year for Seles as well, picking up a winners cheque as big as the Men's to open an account that would be swollen by winnings in France and the States.

Last year she reaffirmed her status as world number 1 with a third consecutive victory in the Virginia Slims championships. ■

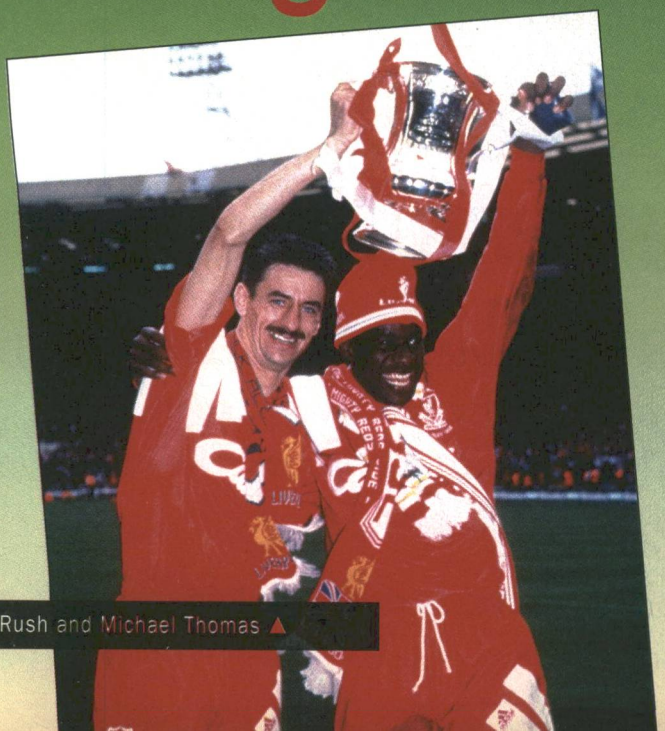
Killing Fields!



Ian Rush and Michael Thomas ▲

The Third Round of the FA Cup is the arena for giant-killing. The best of the non-league sides remain in the draw as the Premier League clubs join the fray. Back in September 561 clubs had their entries accepted for the 112th FA Challenge Cup tournament; by the end of the month the names of the final 16 will be held in the famous felt bag of the FA Cup Draw.

Sky Sports broadcast the draw for the Third Round exclusively live on December 6th, soon after Wycombe's tie with West Bromwich Albion, so the excitement has been building for more than a month.

And with 64 teams in the Third Round draw the teams are just five victories, or seven-and-a-half hours from the twin towers of Wembley.

Exclusive live coverage of a Third Round tie will be screened on Monday 4th, with a replay on Wednesday 13th. The draw for the next round will be broadcast live on Sunday 3rd, and the pattern will be repeated at the Fourth Round with the tie-of-the-round live on Monday 25th and Fifth Round draw live on Sunday 24th.

Besides the live matches and the exclusive Cup Draws, Sky Sports will screen two hours of highlights on the FA Cup on saturdays straight after Sports Saturday, with goals and highlights from three of the day's matches.

And the regular supporting soccer shows, from Sky Soccer Weekend to Goals on Sunday will preview, review and analyse the action. ■

Bunch of five

The four countries left in the also-ran positions during last year's Five Nations Championship will be going flat-out to humble grand slammers England this time round. Who can stop Will Carling's men?

England as favourites. England to cream all opposition! England as champions. There aren't many sports where such phrases slip truthfully from the tongue, but rugby union is one of them.

Will Carling – the pin-up skipper of England's rugby team – is expecting to lead his merry men to a third Five Nations title in a row this year.

It all seems to be done and dusted before a ball is passed. Not so.

The Dragons of Wales are beginning to breathe fire once more under the guidance of Robert Jones while the French can still be brilliant and blundering in equal doses in the same game.

The Scots are in transition following the retirement of captain David Sole while the Irish seem to have a tight hold of the wooden spoon.

But David Lawrenson, editor of Rugby News, believes any of England's opponents could come good. 'If any one of the four has one outstanding performance in them, it will come against England.

'Carling knows this and it will be this kind of pressure to succeed as overwhelming favourites that England must cope with.

'The team is grafting on new players and they are now used to winning, but it's never easy in the Five Nations.'

For the first time, the championship will be broadcast across Europe via Screensport. It's another feather in the cap of rugby union as it aspires to become a truly worldwide sport.

The Rugby World Cup in 1991 was one of the most successful tournaments of that sporting year. It pushed the boundaries of the sport into the unknown areas – Eastern Europe, Asia and even America. It was one world event that hadn't achieved world domination. The inaugural championship in 1987 (won so convincingly by New Zealand) was a family affair. The rugby family kept the new baby pretty much to themselves until they believed in it.

David Lawrenson says, 'Rugby union doesn't just happen every four years with the World Cup and it's important that this message is sent clearly to as many countries as possible. More countries than ever before are now members of the International Rugby Board and all this exposure is bound to help development.'

Screensport made the breakthrough for rugby union with total live screening of the Rugby World Cup – all 32 games were live. ■

Robin of Hollywood

Whether regarded as a fabulous Olde Englishe adventure told in the swash-buckling tradition, or merely a 12th century 'Viet vet' film, Kevin Costner's Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves remains one of the biggest hits of 1991.

The $50 million adventure romp was rushed into production in order to fend off the challenge of two rival Robin Hood projects.

But followers of the Kevin cult needn't have worried, as only one of these made it into production, and even then only made its debut on American TV.

Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves blends Costner's sensitive, liberal 'Mr Nice Guy' image with his boyish, action-man exuberance, creating an entirely new kind of outlaw who has never been seen on screen or read about in books before.

'He's a different kind of guy,' Costner explained just prior to shooting. 'I don't want to take the spirit away from him, but he's a world traveller and not someone who has only lived in Sherwood Forest.'

The film begins in an Arab dungeon, where Robin faces execution for his part in the crusades. True to form, Robin and a couple of pals soon make their escape and return home to England, where he finds his father dead and the people living under the tyranny of Alan Rickman's diabolical Sheriff of Nottingham.

It's war, of course, from now on, as this very English tale is transformed into a contemporary Indiana Jones-style rollercoaster adventure, boasting an impressive cast that includes Morgan Freeman (Unforgiven, Glory), Christian Slater (Heathers, The Name of the Rose) and Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio (The Abyss) as Maid Marian, with a final cameo scene with super-Scot Sean Connery as Good King Richard.

Unlike so many performers who have an inflated opinion of themselves and their creation, Costner was refreshingly realistic about why the film was so successful.

'The movie has to roll itself into somebody opening the paper and saying "He's, going to jump on some people, he's going to stab somebody, let's go see it." Then you've got to deliver a movie that will make people say "I'm glad I went to see this kind of fable."'

As for the future, Costner can soon be seen opposite Grammy-winning pop chanteuse Whitney Houston in the romantic thriller Bodyguard. Sporting an outrageously short-cropped hairstyle, Costner plays the eponymous role of an ex-Secret Service agent who becomes Houston's personal minder when the pop star receives death threats. ■

Change Of Gear For Ridley...

Susan Sarandon and Geena Davis star together in Ridley Scott's female buddy movie Thelma and Louise.

The film follows the on-the-road odyssey of Louise, a smart, tough but vulnerable diner waitress played by Susan Sarandon, and Geena Davis's Thelma, a beaten-down housewife with a bubbly, fun-loving spirit quashed by her priggish, self-important husband, played by scene-stealing Christopher McDonald.

Together the pair sets off in Louise's '66 Thunderbird for a weekend away from their relentless daily grind, only to be struck by tragedy and sent careening off course down an unpredictable highway which leads to crime, excitement and self-discovery.

Ridley Scott is a director whose name is intrinsically linked with visually staggering films, full to overload with hard-hitting action and exuding a brooding machismo, films which swagger around on-screen bombastically flaunting their technical proficiency. Thelma and Louise comes as a pleasant surprise from a film-maker not exactly known for getting in touch with his feminine side.

'The project was particularly interesting to me because it is almost completely focused on these female characters,' said Scott. 'That means I can't get up to any of my usual tricks.'

Although the movie was seen by many as a feminist tract, Scott saw it a little differently.

'I am hoping that the film is done with such humour that men will be able to laugh at themselves, rather than take it too seriously,' he pronounced. Both Sarandon and Davis were nominated for Oscars, although both lost to Silence of the Lambs star Jodie Foster.

▲ Susan Sarandon and Geena Davis in Thelma and Louis

Geena Davis, who won an Academy Award four years ago for her performance in The Accidental Tourist, remarked that she had never before had to play 'a character who goes through so many changes.' ■

Directed by Swedish film-maker Lasse Hallstrom, this bitter-sweet film tells the story of a young Italian woman (Holly Hunter) who is so determined to fall in love that she winds up marrying a man who may not be entirely suitable (Richard Dreyfuss, of course), dividing her family in the process. Also starring are Danny Ruby Aiello, Sex, Lies and Videotapes' Laura San Giacomo and Gena Rowlands.

Marked man

▲ Steven Seagal as John Hatcher in Marked for Death!

America's hottest new action star, Steven Seagal, takes on a gang of sinister drug dealers in the urban thriller Marked for Death.

Seagal, who built up a solid fan-base among action fans with such films as Above the Law and Hard to Kill, was propelled to Hollywood stardom's higher ec elons by the movie, in which he plays ex-DEA agent John Hatcher.

Hatcher is pitted against his toughest adversary yet, a Jamaican drug-lord named Screwface, played by stage actor Basil Wallace, whose black magic powers make ordinary crime-tackling methods redundant.

The prime motivating force behind the film was the feeling that the US judicial system is helpless in the face of the escalating narcotics problem. Seagal's character is determined to do something to redress the balance.

Since Marked for Death was released two years ago, Seagal has become one of Hollywood's top box-office draws. His latest film, Under Siege, found him in the Number One position for four weeks . His new film, The Warriors of the Rainbow for Die Hard 2 director Renny Harlin, went into production recently. ■

Mermaid Cher is a queer fish!

In Mermaids Cher gives a sassy performance as the eccentric Mrs Flax, the mother and permanent source of embarrassment to teenage daughter Charlotte, played excellently by Winona Ryder. While Charlotte is having boy trouble her mother flits and flirts between men, principal among whom is gregarious storekeeper Lou Landsky (Bob Hoskins). It's a lively mix of drama and comedy set in New England in 1963 and it includes an off-beat soundtrack with songs like The Shoop Shoop Song (It's in His Kiss), Mambo Italiano and Oklahoma! ■

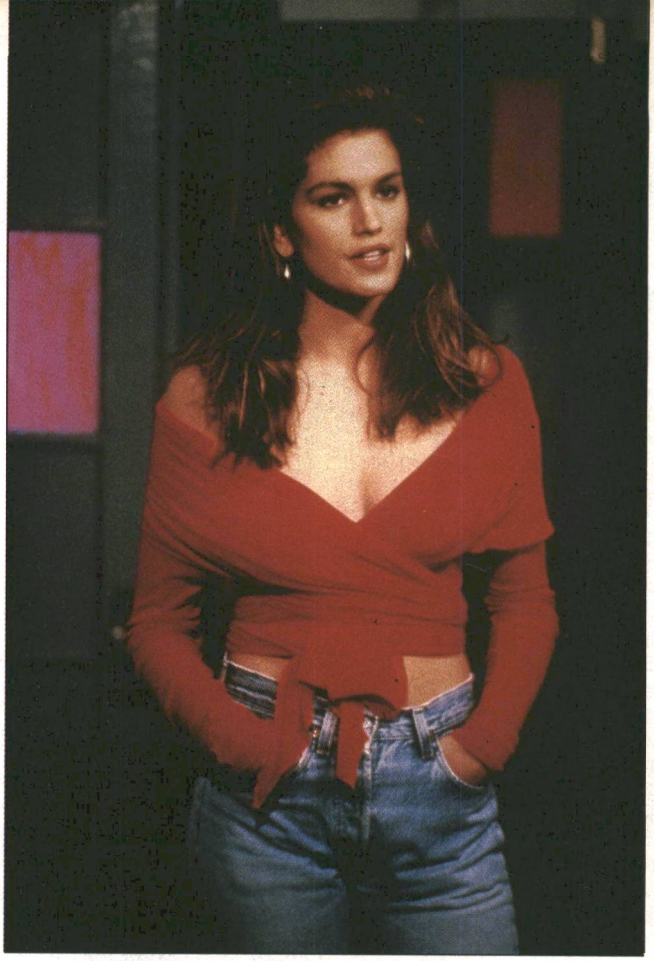
Cindy dolls up!



MTV VIEWERS will know Cindy Crawford as a regular face on The Pulse with SWATCH, and she also presents The Pulse's sister show House of Style on MTV US in which she spreads the US fashion word to MTV's European viewers.

The Pulse team recently accompanied Cindy to Milan for a behind-the-scenes clothes fitting with Italian designer duo Dolce & Gabbana at the Spring/Summer 93 Collections.

Dolce & Gabbana have made a considerable mark on the international fashion scene over past seasons. Their theme this season was the cosmopolitan hippy chic, a look inspired by the streets of LA, New York and London in the 1960s and 1970s, brought up-to-date with an Italian 1990s feel.

Cindy is one of the duo's favourite models, and The Pulse had exclusive access to her clothes fitting the day before the show, where the designers take their final decision on which look best matches the model.

The looks chosen for Cindy's catwalk appearance ranged from the romantic, strong look to the masculine but erotic black tie and suit. ■

ONE OF THE trendiest bands around (they've even been banned from the USSR), the B52s have undergone numerous personnel changes over their 15 year career.

The band's distinctive dance party sound was created in the college town of Athens, Georgia, where they played at a Valentine's ball in 1977. The band soon found success as part of the American new wave movement with their wacky image and wild stage shows, and went on to even greater fame with their debut single Rock Lobster and a string of classic albums including Wild Planet, The Party, Mesapotamia, Whammy and Cosmic Thing.

MTV's Rockumentary follows the band's success story and includes exclusive home video footage. ■

Their latest offering Blood Sugar Sex Magik (1992), which was described as 'intense, incendiary and uncompromising', featured the smash hit singles Give It Away and Under the Bridge, which both won awards at last year's MTV Awards.

This MTV Special traces the band's rise to fame through interviews, concert footage and videos. ■

Six stars to watch out for on CMT

Reba McEntire

The down-home red-headed superstar from Oklahoma grew up on her father's farm and studied classical violin and piano before becoming one of America's favourite entertainers. As her career has expanded she has become established as a successful actress, her dramatic talent showing in country videos like Take It Back and Is There Life Out There.

Billy Ray Cyrus

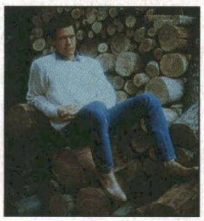
'Most of my songs come to me as fast as I can speak them,' says Billy Ray Cyrus, the soft-lyspoken Kentuckian whose uninhibited stage act has hypnotised audiences for more than five years. His smash hit debut album Some Gave All, includes tributes to Vietnam vets like the title track, danceable, boot-tappers like Achy Breaky Heart and a sizzling cover of Nancy Sinatra's These Boots Are Made for Walkin'.

Mary-Chapin Carpenter

Born in New Jersey, Mary-Chapin Carpenter is somewhere on the borderline between rock, folk and country, stating, 'I'm most comfortable saying I play acoustic guitar and front a rock and roll band.' Last year she won a Grammy Award for Down at the Twist and Shout, and is now enjoying great success with her latest album Come On Come On.

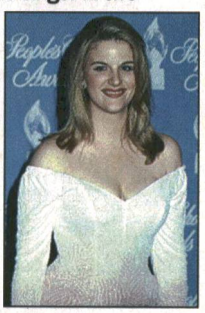
Randy Travis

An accomplished singer and guitarist from an early age, Travis was performing across the American South by the time he was a teenager. Hard work and remarkable vocal talents led him to a job at the famed Nashville Palace, key television appearances and a 1985 deal with Warner Brothers Records. The rest is history, as Travis has become one of the biggest country acts of all time.



Trisha Yearwood

Hailing from Georgia, Trisha was the first female singer in two decades to reach number one with her first single She's In Love with the Boy, and her debut album was one of 1991's best sellers. But her success is not as sudden as it appears as she had previously sung on many country sessions with the then equally unknown Garth Brooks.



Travis Tritt

'To me, country music is a soundtrack for the lives of working people,' says Georgia-born Travis Tritt, now one of the hottest acts in the US. His unique brand of country is rooted in real-life emotions and everyday situations. Travis, who can be seen on CMT delivering a scathing condemnation of America's economic troubles in Lord Have Mercy on the Working Man, was nominated for five categories in last year's Country Music Association awards.

The

The Rhinestone Cowboy is dead. Steppin' in to fill his shoes comes a posse of dynamic young country stars led by concert hall powerhouse Garth Brooks

At the centre of the popular country whirlwind is Garth Brooks, an unprepossessing 30-year-old former advertising graduate from Oklahoma City.

'I'm not claiming that I'm the cause of all this,' he says modestly, 'but I am sayin' that I'm fortunate to be in the wave of it. Youth hit country music, and youth is the reason for massive sales.

'But country music didn't lose its more mature base either, so country singers have both audiences. There isn't a demographic in country music.'

Brooks released his first album in 1989 and hasn't looked back since. In the past three years he has sold more than 20 million albums, outselling heavyweights like Michael Jackson, Guns N' Roses, Prince and U2 with his latest album The Chase taking advance orders of almost five million prior to its September release.

So what's all the yee-haw about? It's simple. Garth Brooks represents a new breed of country entertainer. He's younger than the ageing rhinestoned Opry stars of yesteryear, and he's learned a lot from the successful acts heading rock's mainstream.

Garth grew up in an Oklahoma City suburb listening to Kiss, Queen, James Taylor and Billy Joel, and incorporated their theatrics into his stage act once he had made it in country.

Instead of standing straight as a poker clutching his guitar to his chest, Garth prances Jagger-like across the stage, cruising through his audience, swinging from electric cables and rope ladders and even smashing his guitar Townsend-style as part of his finale. And he loves it. 'It's a blast, man. Sometimes by the end of the night my jaws are just so sore from laughing so hard. It's easier for seven of us to entertain a crowd than one of us. I just turn my players loose and say, "You go out there . . ." Even the crew gets into

BIG COUNTRY

Country music has already undermined the supremacy of mainstream rock in the US. Now the arrival of Country Music Television has set British feet tappin' . . .

Oklahoma Kid !

the show, and the fans are pretty much laughin' at each other, too. You just have the best time in the world up there.'

His training as a marketing and advertising graduate in college also shows. Not only has he moved more albums with more velocity than anyone in the history of Nashville, but his imposition of low gate prices, resulting in the average Brooks concert-goer spending as much inside the venue as mainstream rock fans, coupled with his hard line on bootleggers, reflects his philosophy that 'The less people pay for a product that they are happy with, the happier they are with it.'

'Country music has never been a mega-million dollar business for people to infiltrate, but now it is,' he explains. 'The bootleggers that ball your tour with T-Shirts and sell pieces of junk in the parking lot reflect the evil and crookedness that's in the business. I don't think there's any room for it.

'We work 24 hours a day to beat 'em. We don't arrest anybody, just confiscate their stuff and tell 'em to get off the property. It's sad, but it's somethin' that you have to do, because it's the fans who pick up the bill if you don't.'

Needless to say, Garth doesn't get too much time off. 'The greatest part of relaxing for me came about six months ago when I got a brand new little girl,' he says with pride. 'It's the most relaxing thing in the world, just to hold her and watch her grow. That's how I get my relaxation. We called her Taylor, because my wife Sandy and I are extreme James Taylor fans.'

Shortly afterwards the media was rife with rumours that he was quitting. 'Just to clear things up, I never announced that I was going to retire. I said I have to make sure that my little girl doesn't suffer from me bein' out on the road, and if she does, then I would have to hang it up. I said I wanted to take a break and take a look at it, and that's what we're doin', takin' eight months off and staying at home.'

▼ Garth with wife Sandy and daughter Taylor

▲ 'Video set me apart from every other artist' says Garth

At around the same time, his eagerly awaited album The Chase was released, featuring a typically strong collection of songs including several covers of country classics as well as a few surprises like That Summer, which he wrote with Sandy.

Garth is not afraid to tackle controversial topics like rape, as he does in Face to Face, and also addresses international and humanitarian issues in songs like We Shall Be Free.

'I see myself as a person who has been granted the ear of a nation for three minutes at a time. Every song I have out can't be this intense or pretty soon they just stop listening to you, but I think every now and then you need to put out somethin' that does reveal a part of your soul, somethin' that you believe in. And We Shall Be Free definitely did that for me.'

So what next? 'The one thing that I do know is that I want to be a family guy. In five years' time I wanna be a father and a husband and a brother and a son. And that's the only thing I know for sure. If music's in it for five years, Wow! I'm five times luckier than I am right now'. ■ JEREMY ISAAC

Country and Western music may once have sounded corny to British ears, but times and the music have changed. It's no longer a specialist genre found only in rural areas of the US, but now boasts younger artists and a wider range of music.

Country Music Television has just arrived in Britain with the intention of doing for country music what MTV did for rock and pop.

By airing country music's hottest emerging artists on video with vivid graphics, CMT hopes to attract the vast audience of young adults to the livelier, contemporary sound now in vogue.

Country music has moved on since the days of its first boom in the late 1960s, when Johnny Cash had a TV variety show and Tammy Wynnette classics decorated movie soundtracks.

In 1985 country boomed again, as 22-year-old Randy Travis headed a new generation of country pin-up stars.

One of those who followed in Travis's wake was Oklahoma-born Garth Brooks, who released his first album in the Spring of 1989 and went on to sell more than 20 million albums in the next three years.

Meanwhile Randy Travis's seven years in the limelight now qualify him as an elder statesman. As one critic bluntly put it, 'Rock is out, country is in.'

Country Music Television offers die-hard fans and new converts the chance to switch on to such happening country artists as Billy Ray Cyrus, Mary-Chapin Carpenter, Reba McEntire, Trisha Yearwood, Dwight Yoakam, Vince Gill, Travis Tritt and, of course, Garth Brooks.

CMT plays music videos 24 hours a day ranging from fast-paced country rockers to soulful ballads that deal with the hopes, fears and everyday problems of ordinary folk.

But it's not all Nashville skyline wallpaper, as the channel also features concerts, country chart rundowns, breakthrough videos and a chance to hear the artists talking about their latest songs.

But a word of warning: CMT is highly addictive; once you're watching, you'll never switch off!

Guinness – pure genius

From Peter Sellers to Benny Hill, Britain's spectacularly strong tradition of comic character acting probably owes its greatest debt to Ealing's 'man of many faces' Alec Guinness

▲ Alec Guinness in his many roles in 'Kind Hearts and Coronets'

With the exception of Olivier, none of Britain's serious actors has had such a successful film career as Alec Guinness.

In 1946 David Lean cast him in Great Expectations as Pocket, for which he received rave reviews, and soon became noted for his subtle disguises.

In 1948 he appeared in Kind Hearts and Coronets, his first film for the Ealing Studios with which his name would be forever associated.

Kind Hearts and Coronets is a black comedy in which Dennis Price, ninth in line to inherit the Dukedom of Chalfont, systematically eliminates the intervening eight relatives who are all played by Guinness. The role won him international recognition.

In The Lavender Hill Mob (1951) he starred as a timid civil servant who robs the Bank of England and, with the help of four accomplices, attempts to smuggle bullion worth more than £1 million into France in the form of souvenir models of the Eiffel Tower.

For The Man in the White Suit, made the same year, Guinness became an idealistic scientist who shatters the textile industry by inventing a super cloth that lasts forever. Envisaging loss of profits and mass unemployment, the workforce, management and government unite to destroy the invention and its creator.

In 1953 Guinness left Ealing to make The Captain's Paradise, a wry comedy about a steamer captain plying between Gibraltar and Tangier, who keeps a wife in each port. The film was a huge success, and starred Yvonne 'Lily Munster' de Carlo and Celia Johnson as the wives in question.

He returned to Ealing in 1955 for The Ladykillers, as the head of a wacky group of criminals including Peter Sellers and Herbert Lom, who use Guinness's landlady as an unwitting accomplice to an armed robbery.

Since then he has excelled in dramatic portrayals, winning the Best Actor Academy Award for his performance in The Bridge on the River Kwai in 1957, and receiving a knighthood in 1959.

He continues to appear on stage and screen but will always be remembered for his appearances at Ealing, where his genuine wit and tremendous gift for disguise were crucial to the resurgence of British comic tradition.

Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi together on screen for the first time!

Lugosi stars as Dr Vitus Werdegast, a man in search of the Austrian architect Hjalmar Poelzig (Karloff) who betrayed his country during World War I. What he discovers in Poelzig's European castle home is more terrifying and unbelievable than he expected; bizarre plotting, with much worshipping of the Devil, chanting of obscure Latin epithets and bodies in tanks, and poor old Boris even gets skinned alive during the grand finale. Watch out for John Peter Richmond who later changed his name to become the late, great John Carradine.

The Club Show – Coventry

Sky Sports 8.30am

The club began as a factory team at Singers Cycles in 1883, only adopting the name Coventry Football Club in 1898. They have won just one major honour, the FA Cup in 1987, and are famed for employing Jimmy Hill as manager (1961–67) and celebrating their victories in the new FA Premier League with a trip to McDonalds as manager Bobby Gould's special post-match treat.

Coventry started this season in style, leading the Premier League in the opening weeks. It was some relief for Sky Blues fans who have seen four different managers in two years. But over the years they have not had high expectations as the only honour won by the club was a stunning 3–2 win over Tottenham in the 1987 FA Cup Final.

After months of preparation thousands of video clips have been taken from the extensive FIFA archives to form the questions of this World Cup quiz, competed in by football fans across the UK. Seven thousand viewers entered the first stage of the competition, and after pre-selection and soccer tests they were whittled down to eight starters. They will compete against Geoff Hurst, Martin Peters, Denis Law, Terry Yorath and Martin O'Neill. After 13 weeks the overall champion receives a replica of the World Cup trophy and an all-expenses-paid trip to a World Cup Match of their choice. The quizmaster is Nicky Campbell.

Sport
Motorsport - Tyrell Special

Sky Sports 7.00pm
Sky Sports celebrates Tyrrell's 25 years of Grand Prix racing. Ken Tyrell was first attracted to motorsport after a brief visit to Silverstone in 1951, and within days he had bought his first racing car. After a brief spell as team Manager for the Cooper Formula Two team, Tyrell set up his own organisation, entering the Formula One field in 1968. After one season, his driver Jackie Stewart was second in the Championships and, by the time of Stewart's retirement in 1973 the partnership had taken two Constructor's Championships and three driver's Championships. In the 1970s Tyrell cars were driven by some of the best racers in the world, including Jody Scheckter, Ronnie Peterson, Patrick Depaillier and Didier Pironi, and Tyrell's renowned design innovation produced the six-wheeled Tyrell P-34. After 25 unbroken years in Formula One, Tyrell can claim 33 Grand Prix wins and more than 300 starts, and they remain one of the few consistent 'establishment' names in the sport.

The Movie Channel 12.30am

A brutal, loud, violent and tirelessly inventive post-apocalyptic nightmare from precocious first-time feature director Richard Stanley. Returning from the nuclear-ravaged wastelands, Moses (Dylan McDermott) pays a visit to girlfriend Julie (Stacy Travis), an industrial artist who stays locked away from 'uncivilisation' in her dungeon-like basement studio, bringing with him the fragments of a destroyed warrior robot as a gift. It isn't long, however, before these seemingly dormant pieces reactivate themselves and mutate into an unstoppable psychopathic metal killer that stalks Julie relentlessly through her apartment. Mind-boggling OTT visuals coupled with a pulsating score belie Stanley's rock video training and may not be to everybody's taste, but the sheer wealth of imagination and ferocious amount of energy are impossible to deny.

Gremlins II: The New Batch

Sky Movies Plus 10.00pm

A comedy and special-effects extravaganza of a sequel from Joe Dante, the man behind the 1984 original. The subject of genetic experiments, Gizmo, the loveable, furry Mogwai, spawns a new batch of toothsome, mischievous and carnivorous gremlins, a thoroughly malevolent knee-high reptilian army who overrun the hi-tech New York offices of Daniel Clamp (John Glover as a hilarious amalgam of Donald Trump and Ted Turner), wreaking havoc on the air waves as they take over the media magnate's cable network. Teaming up once again with Gizmo to defeat the Gremlin scourge are young lovers Zach Galligan and Phoebe Cates, while vintage horror veteran Christopher Lee leads the pack in Dante's endless parade of witty cameos and movie in-jokes.

The Club Show - Ipswich Town

Sky Sports 6.30pm

The club was founded in 1878, but did not join the Football league until 1938. Since that time they have employed just nine managers, including Alf Ramsey, Jackie Milburn and Bobby Robson. Ramsey won the Championship with Ipswich in 1962 - their only league success - but Robby Robson lead the club through their most successful era. From 1969 to 1982 Ipswich won the FA Cup, UEFA Cup and Texaco Cup, competed in all three European competitions, and were runners up twice in the First Division.

Texasville

The Movie Channel 2.30am
Peter Bogdanovich's sequel to The Last Picture Show catches up with the inhabitants of the small town of Anarene, Texas 20 years on.
While the townspeople prepare for the 'Old Texasville' Centennial', festivities are the furthest thing from the mind of Duane Jackson (Jeff Bridges). With his oil fortune evaporating in the wake of the energy crisis, his beautiful wife Karla (Annie Potts) impulse buying condominiums all over the state and his best friend Sonny (Timothy Bottoms) slowly losing his mind, life has moved on from the carefree days of the 1950s. Just when it seems that things can't get any more complicated for Duane, his old high school sweetheart Jacy (Cybill Shepherd) returns home reawakening old desires and, in a strange turn of events, becoming close friends with the sharp-tongued Karla.
Based once again on a novel by Larry McMurtry, this follow-up also finds Cloris Leachman (who won an Oscar for her performance in the original), Eileen Brennan and Randy Quaid reprising their roles.

Sky Movies Gold 8.00pm

After the big budget outer-space excesses of 1979's Moonraker, producer Cubby Broccoli stripped back his Fleming franchise, turned the series over to former second unit-director/editor John Glen and attempted a return to the more simplistic, down-to-earth, stunt-oriented adventure and espionage of the Bond novels.

That said, this exciting tale about Bond (in this case Roger Moore) tracing a top secret military device that has been sunk off the Greek coast is the first in the long-running series not to credit Ian Fleming as the story's original author, even though it is based on his novel of the same name.

Defending Your Life

Sky Movies Plus 6.00pm
An Albert Brooks comedy about a middle-aged man who dies in a car crash and finds himself in Judgement City, a limbo where his life is assessed by an independent tribunal who must decide whether or not he is eligible for entry to Heaven. With Rip Torn as his lawyer, Brooks is called to the stand to 'defend his life', explaining his mistakes and misjudgements and calling attention to his scant few acts of bravery and selflessness. While waiting for the decision which will ultimately alter the course of his death, Brooks meets and falls in love with fellow divine defendant Meryl Streep. Charming, inventive, romantic and very, very funny.

Betty Blue

The Movie Channel 12.40am

A much-loved French tale of amour fou from cult favourite Jean-Jacques Beneix.
Zorg and Betty (Jean-Hughes Anglade and Beatrice Dalle), two aimless, independent free spirits, meet and immediately fall in love, marking the start of an intense and passionate romance. General
The Last of Summer

Lifestyle 2.10pm

This is an adaptation in four episodes of a novel by Kate O'Brien, one of Ireland's most successful novelists. The Kernahans are a prosperous farming family well-established in the village of Drumaninch in the west of Ireland. Their measured life is changed with the arrival of Angele, a young and beautiful French actress. It is the hot and uneasy summer of 1939, and the private drama in the quiet Irish countryside, alternating between summer idylls and domestic tensions, is paralleled by the larger drama of the outside world which draws closer to Drumaninch. The cast includes Ronnie Masterson and Susan Fitzgerald.

Sport
The Club Show - Wimbledon

Sky Sports 6.30pm

The Dons created one of the greatest sensations in the FA Cup, when they beat First Division Burnley as a non-league side in 1975. Since then they have created many more shocks; rising from non-league to premier League in under 15 years and beating Liverpool in the 1988 FA Cup Final. Wimbledon seem to be the perpetual underdogs of top flight football, tipped for promotion year after year, yet surviving through a mixture of strong team spirit and a heavy reliance on John Fashanu's goals.

Films
Solomon and Sheba

Sky Movies Gold 6.30pm
Super handsome Yul Brynner took over from the late Tyrone Power, who died mid-production, as Solomon, the wise and philosophic King of Israel who clashes with his warrior brother Adonijah over the throne. Gina Lollobrigida plays Sheba, the treacherous Queen who sets out to topple Solomon but ends up falling in love with him. As one would expect from a biblical epic of this nature, there are many significant set-pieces, including a trio of terrific battle scenes and one doozy of a 'wrath of God' sequence.

General
Falcon Crest

Sky One 12.00noon
California's celebrated wine country is the backdrop for this explosive series about a struggle for power and land between two factions of the Gioberti family. Angela Channing (Jane Wyman) controls one half of the vineyards and her nephew Chase (Robert Foxworth) controls the other half that she is determined to have for herself.

Sport
Sky Soccer Weekend

Sky Sports 6.00pm
A pacy preview magazine, with player profiles, features, interviews and all the gossip from around the grounds of Britain. Paul Dempsey and a special studio guest take a special look at this weekend's ties in the FA Cup 4th Round.

Boyz II Men Special

MTV 3.30pm

Boyz II Men, whose recent smash End of the Road held the number one slot in the UK and USA are the subject of this MTV Special. Boyz II Men have a name which bridges the gap between generations. Hailing from Philadelphia, USA, they come from the same blues-soul background that brought us Harold Melvin and the Bluenotes, the O'Jays and Patti Labelle. They came together in 1988 at Philadelphia's High School of Creative and Performing Arts, where they developed their vocal and writing skills, and four years on they have proved their worth on both sides of the Atlantic.

Mr & Mrs Bridge

The Movie Channel 7.00pm

Director James Ivory and screenwriter Ruth Prawer Jhabvala, the creative team behind A Room With a View and Howard's End, adapt Evan S Connell's two novels for the screen in effective and affecting fashion. Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward play Walter and India Bridge, a Midwestern couple of the 1930s whose marriage has slowly stagnated over the years following the birth of their children. India particularly, under the weight of her strait-laced, domineering lawyer husband, feels strongly their love and her life slipping away, as the days pass and her children leave home, leaving the passion her marriage to Walter once held only a memory.

A beautifully crafted film about the comfort and the pain of growing old with someone, the transience of love and the ephemerality of true happiness.

The Blood Beast Terror

Bravo 10.05pm
A 19th century entomologist creates human beings who can change themselves into giant Death's Head moths that need human blood to survive. One of a series of horror hoots from the Tigon Pictures stable of the 1960s, with nice performances from British stalwarts Robert Flemyng and Peter Cushing, and a rather menacing one from Wanda Ventham as she searches for a mate before appearing in the popular long-running TV series The Lotus Eaters.

General
Choosing

Lifestyle 2.10pm
Mareen Donegan's play is about Tim, the 18-year-old son of a middle class suburban family. His dilemma is a common one - the university student whose education and development means that he is outgrowing his parents intellectually, socially and morally.
He can no longer accept his parents' way of life or their moral attitudes. He meets Julie, a slightly older student with far more experience of life than he has, with whom he has his first sexual experience. Julie knows that she will never be successful at university or in a career, and has decided to leave and take a bus into the unknown. Knowing Tim's uncertainties and unhappiness she persuades him to go with her.

Sport
The Club Show - QPR

Sky Sports 6.30pm
Focus on the fans and history of Queen's Park Rangers. The club was founded in 1885 or 1886 but did not play its first football league game until 1920, as a founder member of Division Three. Rangers rose to Division One in 1968, a year after they took their only major honour - the Football League Cup. Despite reaching the FA Cup Final in 1982, League Cup Final in 1986 and competing in Europe in 1984, they have yet to win another trophy. However, under former midfielder Gerry Francis's management, the team is mounting a serious assault on the first FA Premier League.
